

Here's a quick note of yesterday:

We headed to San Carlos on a 'quick' 3 hour bus trip; thankfully, we have a good bus driver as the roads are not what we find back home!

We checked into the Tilajari Hotel, which is in a peaceful, beautiful setting complete with a full sized soccer field on site! We held our second training session before heading off to a volcano to soak in the natural hot springs. It was quite an experience for our kids. I don't know what they enjoyed more, the huge water slide or Mr. Bircsak in his bathing suit! Either way, I know they will leave with lasting memories :).

The kids are bonding well and look forward to our first match!
