

First, I apologize for not having yesterday's recap...but at least I have today's :).

We earned our first win! We played Heredia on a typical Costa Rican club field and ended up pulling out a 3-2 win; while we made work of it, the boys worked well together to come from behind to win with goals from Ignacio, Flores and Antonoglia. The game proved to be one of those games that can frustrate you as we missed chance after chance--one ball was rolling in and all of the sudden decided to make a right turn and hit the post to go out; crazy. I guess that is what makes the game interesting.

It was a good test of perseverance though and the boys showed good character; it was a good way to end our trip as we now prepare to awake at 3:15am to travel home. The joys of traveling!

Pura vida,
